The October 2014 edition of the NEIGHBOR to NEIGHBOR newsletter features a variety of articles and photographs. The newsletter covers topics such as the Inner-City Neighborhood Art House, the Taste of the Arts event, and the work of artists like Georgia O'Keeffe. The newsletter also highlights the support of local businesses and individuals through sponsorship. In addition, it features articles on painting techniques, such as how to work with acrylics, and the benefits of participating in art classes. The newsletter concludes with a section on upcoming events and deadlines.
From the Desk of Sr. Annette

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

Albert Einstein

A newborn’s fingers, a birthing at dawn, a family reconciliation—we know these as miracles. Just thinking about them brings a smile and wars the heart.

Some miracles, though, are harder to recognize. A crying infant who just will not stop, a cherished project whose funding is cut, a sullen teen who refuses to communicate.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.

There are two ways to live your life. One, as though nothing is a miracle. The other, as though everything is.