When Henry David Thoreau said that “the language of friendship is not words but meanings,” he was most likely speaking of personal friendships. Here at the Art House we know that it applies just as truly to our many friends. The activities undertaken to benefit our children not only bring financial support, they also clearly speak the language of friendship to all who participate. Here are some recent examples.

“WITH FRIENDS WE NEVER CAN FORGET!” SBA School Song

Each year the St. Benedict Academy Alumnae renew friendships at the annual Christmas gathering. This, however, is not just a great time to socialize. Funds raised through the dinner’s activities are donated to one of the Benedictine ministries. This year, the Art House received $6,000 to provide healthy snacks for the children and to replace program materials, primarily string instruments, that have simply “worn out” from years of use by young hands. From the Desk of Sr. Annette

Some people come into our lives and quickly go. Some stay for a while, leave footprints on our hearts, and we are never, ever the same.

Such is the nature of true friends, they are in it for the “long haul.” A good friend sees us through the good times and through the hard times. A true teacher of poetry, Sister Mary Lou had a profound effect on all of us. As she leaves the Art dream, she worked with others to bring it to life. Serving as founder, executive director and CEO, she has led us to benefit our children not only bring financial support, they also clearly speak the language of friendship to all who participate. Here are some recent examples.

SCHUSTER RE-GRANT

DANCING IN STYLE

Children love to dance, and they love to perform, but if you really want to get them excited, give them bright, colorful dance costumes. However, such costumes are expensive. What to do?

Costume Gallery, Inc. of Burlington, NJ responded to Sr. Peg’s request with an amazing donation of 241 brand new dance costumes for our children. Seven large cartons arrived in mid-February. It was “Christmas in February” for Larisa Melodini-Skibniewski’s parents. Said Miss Larisa, “The children will love wearing these beautiful costumes, and their parents will be so proud of them. I wish the wonderful people who gave them to us could see them perform!”

CEREBAL 100

Just what does one hundred mean to a first grader? To bring the concept home, first graders at Our Lady of Peace School were each to do a project using 100 items, something big and bring it to school on the 100th day of the year. Katie Denlinger’s parents saw this as an opportunity to help their daughter respond to the needs of others. After learning about the Art House through a tour of the website, Katie decided to collect 100 dimes by performing small chores at home for which the dimes were a reward. Once earned, the dimes were counted for display and then presented to us. Congratulations to all parents and teachers who help children develop habits of giving.

BARBARA BEHAN SOUPER BOOK SWAP

It is the middle of winter, the students are on break, the cafeteria is closed and the faculty and staff have the campus to themselves. Some years ago, seeing this situation to be a great opportunity, long-time NAH volunteer Dr. Barbara Behan, along with several colleagues at Mercyhurst University, organized the first Souper Book Swap. Combining a love for reading, the enjoyment of homemade soups, and financial support for the Neighborhood Art House, this event draws bigger crowds each year. Now, in Barbara’s memory, Mercyhurst faculty members Karen Meyer, Michele Wheaton and Mary Hembrow Snyder are keeping the tradition alive. With the help of numerous Mercyhurst volunteers, the February 21st tables were spread with a huge assortment of homemade soups, breads and desserts. Food for the mind was also available in books of every variety that were sold at bargain prices.

VIME GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts at Villa Maria Elementary School were busily pursuing a badge that focused on the careful use of money. One of the requirements was to demonstrate their ability to shop wisely. Jill Ennis, their leader, saw this as an opportunity to help the girls see beyond their own needs. She provided each girl with $5 and the mission to shop carefully and bring it to school for a “Souper” project. Once the shopping was complete, the girls decorated a gift bag to hold the treasures they had found. Needless to say, these gifts were gratefully received.

MOSAICS CLASS EMBRACES ERIE PHILHARMONIC’S PROJECT

As part of the Erie Philharmonic’s 100th anniversary celebration they have invited local artists to turn old musical instruments into works of art. Their letter to Sr. Peg, Program Director, stated: “We would like to extend an invitation for the students at the Neighborhood Art House to participate in this most special event…” In response, Sharon Bannon’s mosaic classes have created a mosaic of glass on an old violin. They have titled their project “I Listen to Pieces.”

STUDENTS’ ART DISPLAYED AT TREC

The glories of Presque Isle as captured by local artists will be on display at the Tom Ridge Environmental Center during March. The NAH will be well represented with entries in photography, instructor Lourdes Jasso; sculpture, class project directed by Susan Hunter; and painting, instructor, Mary Lubowicki.

Anyone can form a team. Gather a group at your workplace, your neighborhood, your family, or organization; team prizes will be awarded. Teams and all of their members must be registered by May 28.

WINTER PERFORMANCES

December’s Open House and January’s Music Recital, both well attended by proud parents, celebrated the children’s mid-year accomplishments. Open House attendees were greeted with walls filled with children’s art, each piece unique and an expression of the student’s imagination and talent. Performing arts students presented instrumental music, dance and poetry for the audience’s enjoyment. In addition to performing at the Open House, music students provided a recital of pieces ranging from simple melodies for beginners to classical pieces by the more accomplished students.

These events were partially funded through a $3,233 grant from the CLARENCE E. BEYERS MUSIC PERFORMANCE FUND OF ARTSERIE. Additionally, ARTSERIE has awarded the Neighborhood Art House an Unrestricted Project Grant of $4,773.
